SPECIALIST SPOTLIGHT

meet

DR. REBECCA MOELLMER

PODIATRY

Dr. Moellmer is September's specialist of the month because of the high-quality advice she provides through her eConsults!

Dr. Moellmer has been practicing medicine for 15 years and doing eConsults for 2 years. She attended medical school at New York College of Podiatric Medicine and did multiple residencies at Rancho Specialty Hospital, Community Hospital of Gardena, and Coast Plaza Doctor's Hospital. She believes that the major benefit of eConsult is that it provides rapid response with triaging.

Fun Facts about Dr. Moellmer:

- She foster kittens at home
- Loves to travel and visit new places
- In medicine, she is passionate about a team approach for her patients
- She believes having more than 1 set of eyes on a patient's problem often leads to the best outcomes.

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

Hello Thank you for your Question.
This is a dark seborrheic keratosis. Seborrheic keratoses (seb-o-REE-ik ker-uh-TOE-sEEs) are very common benign lesions found on middle-aged and elderly people. These lesions are sometimes called, "age spots" they are benign and no further treatment is needed. if they are bothersome they could be treated with liquid nitrogen.
Please let me know if the patient needs a Face to Face visit for removal.

Thank you
Ibrahim

A 68-year-old man came because of a 3-month history of a painless skin lesion on his neck. The lesion has gradually become darker in color. Sometimes it is itchy. He also noticed one similar lesion on his lower back. He is a retired gardener. He has smoked half a pack of cigarettes daily for 40 years. His temperature is 36.7°C (98°F), pulse is 72/min, and blood pressure is 123/78 mm Hg. Physical examination shows a 0.8-cm hyperpigmented papule on his neck and a 0.6-cm hyperpigmented papule on his lower back, both of which have a greasy wax-like appearance. A photograph of the neck is shown. What is the next step of management?
